

My Learning GPS at home

by Dr Timi Hyacinth, AFRISAGE · on PromptPaddi Junior

Help your child notice how they learn

A simple guide for parents and guardians: setting up, the week with a child aged 10 or over and with a younger child, monthly progress at home, the emails you receive, prices, and keeping it safe.

Aged 10 and over

Their own private link: a two-minute Daily Pulse, a Friday Reflection and a GPS Check for each topic or test.

Under 10

The Weekly Learning Chat: seven questions you read aloud together, about five minutes once a week.

You

See their week on your dashboard, with anything that needs you at the top, and keep your own notes.

1 • GETTING STARTED

Setting up My Learning GPS

My Learning GPS at home is for PromptPaddi Junior family accounts. If your child's school uses ASEF Learning GPS, your child uses the school's instead.

Plan	A year
One child	₦5,000
Up to 4 children	₦10,000
Already subscribed to PromptPaddi Junior: your first term (120 days)	Free

1. Sign in with Parent login and find My Learning GPS on your dashboard. Start your free term, or buy a plan (Paystack or bank transfer).
2. Add each child with their first name and age group: under 10 for the Weekly Learning Chat, or 10 or over for their own link.
3. For a child aged 10 or over, open their link and QR code: scan it on their phone or tablet and add the page to the home screen. There is no password; the link is theirs, so keep it private. New link replaces it if it is shared.
4. For a younger child, tap Have this week's chat once a week and read the questions aloud together.

My Learning GPS

Help your child notice how they learn, every week. A child aged 10 or over gets their own private link: a two-minute Daily Pulse, a Friday Reflection and a GPS Check for each topic or test, and you see their week here. With a younger child, you have the Weekly Learning Chat together, about five minutes once a week. How it works

On up to 4 children until 28 July 2027. 2 of 4 children added.

What happens each week

A child aged 10 or over

- Daily Pulse, under two minutes at the end of the school day: effort (1 to 5), their day in one word, a traffic light, the subject they focused on and what got in the way.
- Friday Reflection, about ten minutes: their biggest win, what was hardest, the strategy that helped, one thing to do differently, how the week felt, and whether they need you.
- GPS Check for a topic or test: where they are, where they are going, how they will get there, their next steps, and later the result.
- You see their week on your dashboard: each day's colour, effort and word, and anything that needs you at the top.

A child under 10: the Weekly Learning Chat

Sit somewhere quiet together and read each question aloud: what went well, what was tricky, what colour school was this week, and what they would like to try. Record their answers as they say them; it takes about five minutes. You see the weeks build up, and what to follow up.

Monthly progress at home

Once a month, record the latest grades from school reports or the portal, attendance and effort; your child completes their monthly check-in from their link. The same trigger rules as in schools show when it is time to talk with the school.

Add a note under each child: what you talked about, or what you will try.

▼ Have this week's chat

Sit somewhere quiet together. Read each question to Kemi and record their answer. It takes about 5 minutes.

THIS WEEK

1. What's one thing that happened at school this week that you felt good about?

If they're stuck: was there a lesson where something clicked? Did you help a friend? Did you finish something difficult?

2. Was there anything this week that felt hard or confusing? (optional)

Yes: maths or numbers

Yes: reading or writing

Yes: understanding what I was meant to do

Yes: something with friends or at break time

Yes: something else

No, nothing was too hard this week

3. If school was a colour this week, what colour would it be?

There is no right answer. Go with Kemi's first thought.

Bright yellow or orange: happy, excited

The Weekly Learning Chat.

The emails you receive

When	What
Your child asks to talk, or rates their week 1	At once: please find a quiet moment to talk today
A wellbeing score of 1 in their monthly check-in	At once: talk with them, and speak to their school's pastoral team
Fridays	Your family's week: whose chat is waiting, and how the week went. Switch it off on your dashboard, under My Learning GPS (urgent emails are always sent)
30 days, and 7 days, before your plan ends	A reminder to renew: renewing early adds a year from your end date

Keeping it safe

- Your child's answers are seen by you and nobody else.
- If something they write worries you about their safety or wellbeing, speak to their school or a health professional.
- Listen first, and let them know you are glad they told you: the value is in honest answers, not perfect ones.
